WOLVERINE

1955

Published by the Senior Class
Vian High School
Vian, Oklahoma

Why the Smile of Satisfaction?

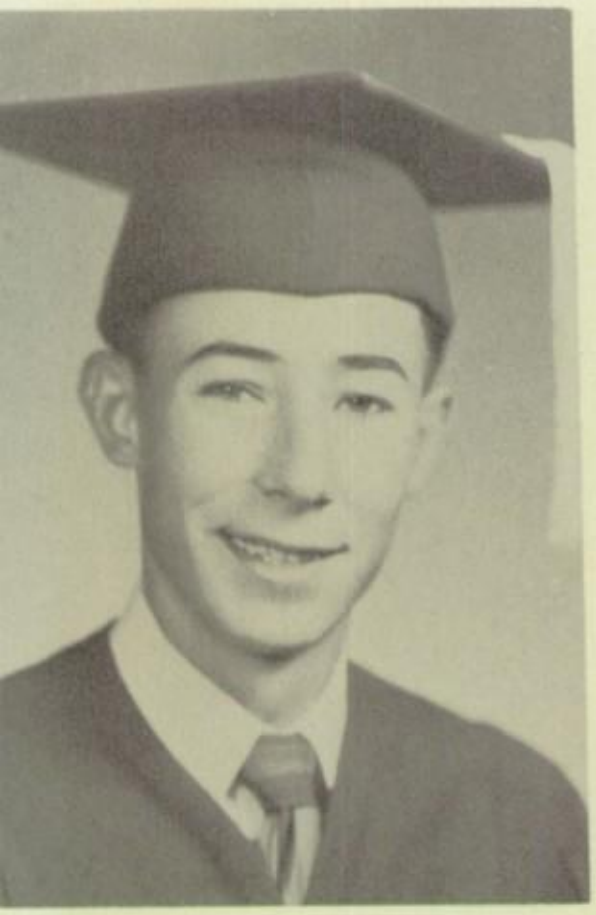
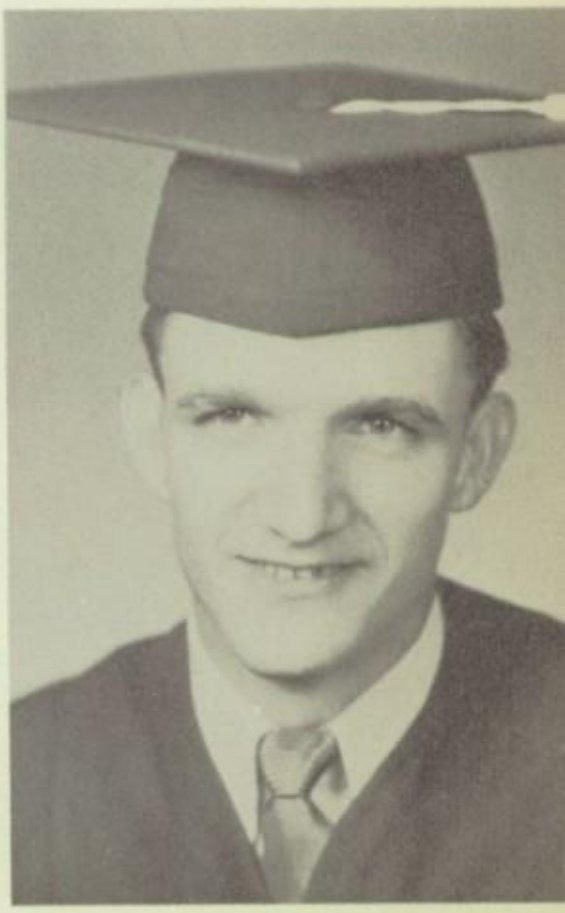
When Mr. Traw learned that this year's WOLVERINE theme was to be: "Learning to Live Together" his face registered a smile of approval. Not only did he indicate his approval with a big smile, but he told us how much it pleased him.





Dedication

Just a few of the dignified "Twenty-nine" .....

....but the entire Senior Class of 1955 wish to dedicate this year's WOLVERINE to our parents and our teachers, whose unselfish and continuous efforts have kept us trodding the paths of knowledge and understanding which have enabled us to learn the better ways of getting along together.

EDITORIAL
by Ruth Moss

For twelve long years we have been associated with persons who have been interested in our problems and our ambitions.

Our parents and our teachers through the years have realized that the most important thing in this world of ours is the people with whom we associate.

They have put forth a lot of effort in teaching us the importance of learning to live together. If we are to be useful members of society, we must learn to get along together. We must learn to understand people and we must try to give them the opportunity to understand us. To go through the world smoothly we must learn to like people and we must learn to make people like us. Friendship is for most of us the basis of any prosperity that we may enjoy, and certainly it is the fundamental thing in achieving pleasant contacts with others.

Sure we had to make adjustments, but learning to do that did not prove too difficult as we learned through study, through work and play, and through helping others. Getting along with people is pretty largely a matter of adjusting yourself to their traits and characteristics, their kind of thought, and their types of action. Making the necessary adjustments took time, but we had many worthwhile experiences while going through the learning process, and as we go out into the world, leaving this institution of learning behind, we want to look back and see just how much our lives have been enriched all because we were taught the importance of learning to get along with others.

FINISHING A LESSON IN ART

These men are our friends. They have traveled miles and miles to aid us in the learning process. "Goodness is never lost no matter who performs it or where."

One of our first steps in learning to live together is learned through play.

Senior Play: The two meanies in "Sing for Your Supper"

Senior play cast in "Sing for Your Supper"

London Bridge proved to be a popular game in the nursery school.

Activity stimulated through action songs.

Creative art through modeling clay in the Home economics nursery school.

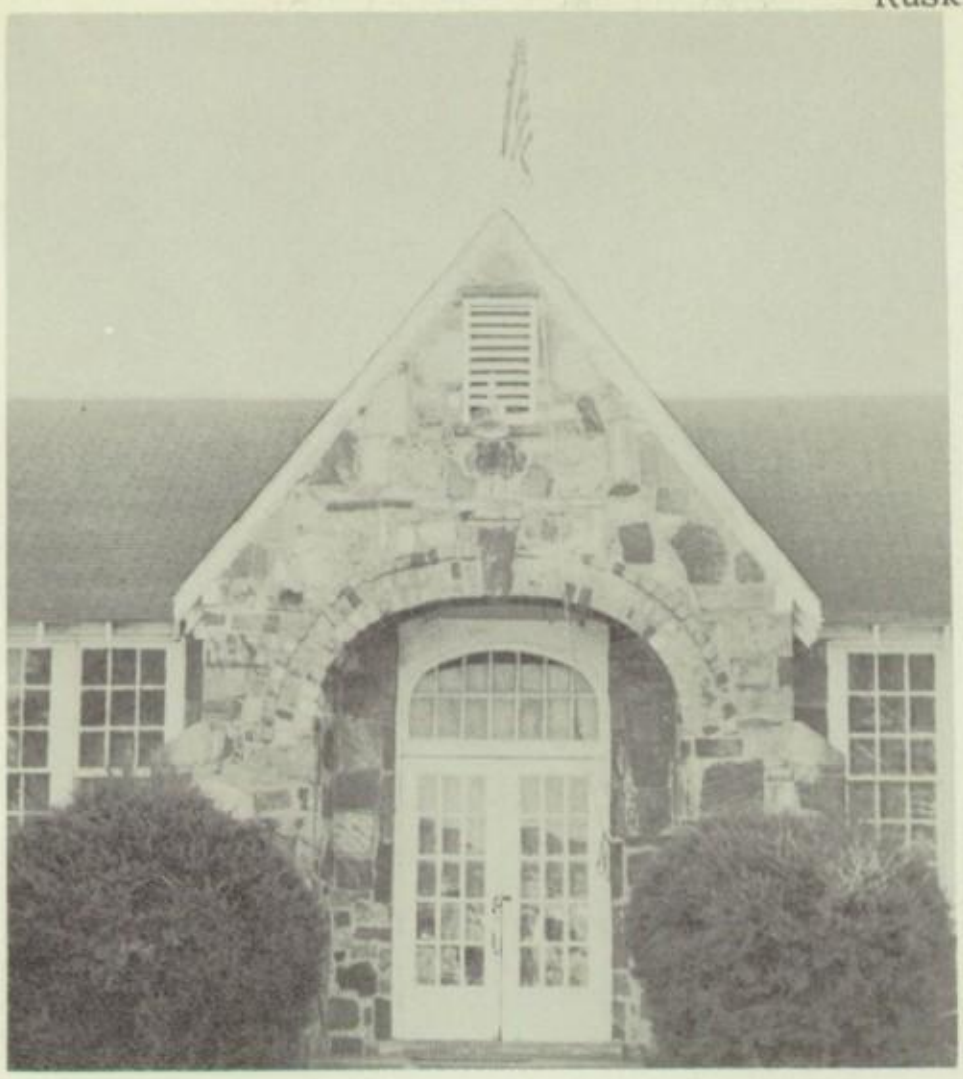
"All work and no play would make Jack a dull boy."

Our Temple of Learning

When love and skill work together, expect a masterpiece.
--Ruskin



We've found Life great, and thanks dear friends and teachers

We stand here on the threshold of tomorrow

WISER for what you have taught us,

STRONGER because of problems you have forced us to solve,

More PATIENT because of errors you have made us rectify;

Our VISION clearer because of things you have shown us,

More TOLERANT because we have known temptation and trial,

HAPPIER because we have known success and triumph in a measure,

More HUMBLE because we also have known heartbreak;

HOPEFUL that the future will bring something of victory

Because the past has brought something of understanding;

And now - wise teachers, counsellors, and friends -

Thank you, and may God bless "you all"
